About Us

We serve as the hub for financial pathways and literacy to help our students align their academic, financial, and career goals.

- Partner with state, federal, and national organizations to vet viable financial opportunities for our students
- Hosts campus workshops, events, provide resources, and advisement sessions
- Collaborate with faculty and staff across departments to identify scholarship funding opportunities and eligible candidates
- Remain the centralized hub for all scholarship updates, award announcements, and resources
- Provide financial reporting and records for the University

Scholarship Management

All university-offered scholarship applications are in the GO System: USM Foundation, department, admission-based, alumni, specific programs, etc. OUS does not award all university scholarships, but we serve as the university hub for all scholarship inquiries and system needs.

- The GO System is a different system than SOAR. Scholarships must be applied for and/or accepted in the GO System.
- The GO System uses a mixture of imported and self-reported data to match you to other campus partners.
- Data between GO and SOAR process within 48 hours
- Scholarship offers are sent to your USM email address

Financial Literacy and Wellness

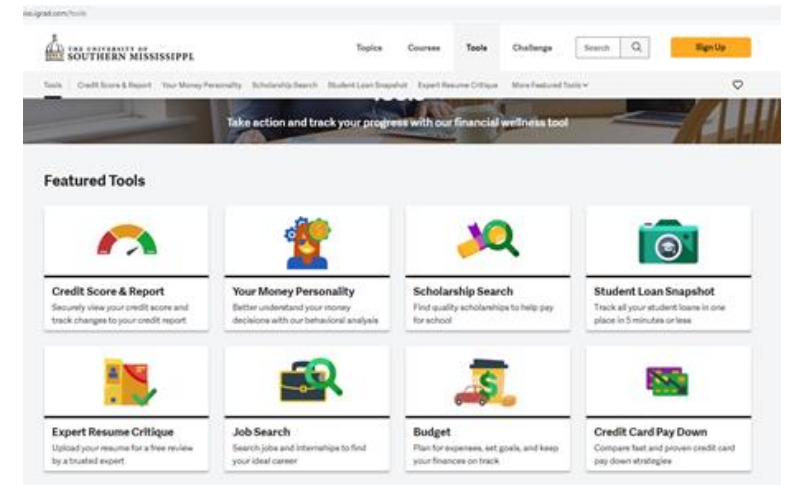

Financial literacy
insight, growth,
help, and teachings

We have partnered with iGrad to bring financial literacy to the entire University in a cohesive and extensive platform that is easy to use.

iGrad is an interactive, online platform that offers a suite of tools designed to provide Southern Miss students with knowledge on financial topics, including budgeting, financial aid, banking, investing and more. There are videos, calculators, articles, recommendations, games and other resources that can help them improve their finances. The platform is free to all currently enrolled students, faculty and staff.

Nationally Competitive Programs and Fellowships

Nationally Competitive Programs (NCP) serve undergraduates and graduates through national or international competitions that help fund research, graduate school, internships, international experiences, and language training. These experiential learning experiences and fellowships expand a student's networking opportunities within their desired field and can often lead to potential job opportunities. Through strategic campus partnerships and collaboration, faculty, students, and staff become ambassadors of the quality education provided at Southern Miss and the national impact of our students' hard work.
