The Office of Financial Aid has received notification that you had Federal Student Loans discharged due to a permanent and total disability. If you would like to borrow additional Federal Student Loans, you are required to submit the forms to the Office of Financial Aid:

1. Borrower Acknowledgement Form – You must sign the statement affirming that any new Federal Student Loans cannot be canceled due to any present impairment unless your condition deteriorates substantially. This must be signed each aid year you receive a new loan after a disability discharge.

2. Physician Certification Form – You must have certification from a physician attesting that your condition has improved, that you have the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity, and that you can attend college. The physician certification is only required once and will be maintained in the student's file.

I, (printed name) _____ acknowledge that the new FSA loan(s) that I am receiving for my education cannot later be discharged for a present impairment. These loans have been awarded based on my physician's certification that I have the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity and that I will be obligated to meet repayment requirements upon completion of my enrollment in my plan of study.
